COUNTY OFFICIALS GIVE TALKS AT TUESDAY CLUB

Crowded Condition of Jail and Hospital Are Topics of Addresses Yesterday

The open forum meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club, which was held yesterday afternoon at Masonic temple, proved to be of considerable interest and enlightenment in regard to many of the county institutions, the speakers for the afternoon being W. B. Traeger, county sheriff; J. B. Bean, county board of supervisors, and Mr. McLaughlin, supervisor of the outdoor relief division of the county charities.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson. After the reading of the minutes Mrs. W. L. Andrews, general curator, announced section meetings, as follows: Legislative, first and third Tuesdays at Masonic temple; drama, Friday, December 16, Mrs. Colin Cable, 505 South Columbus avenue; music, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, 415 South Central avenue, Friday, December 9; arts and crafts, December 8. Mrs. A. M. Williams, chairman of ways and means, announced about the bazaar, which is being held today at Masonic temple, calling attention to the various booths. Mrs. Bert Woodard, who last year made a very large cake decorated with various-colored flowers made of icing and which was disposed of at the bazaar, has made a similar cake for this year's bazaar, and which is decorated with jonquils and violets.

Demand for Trained Men

Miss Poppy, of the high school, was present, and spoke of education week, urging all to visit the schools. She told of the great demand of the public for men of training and gave statistics showing that 75 per cent of the men of prominence are college graduates, and that only 1 per cent of the population receives a college education.

The first speaker of the county officials was Sheriff W. B. Traeger, who told of conditions at the county jail. He stated that the present county jail was built over eighteen years ago and was to accommodate about 200 prisoners, and for the past year a daily average of over 400 prisoners have been housed there, necessitating the placing of more than one prisoner in each cell.

Mr. Traeger stated that a large percentage of the itinerants in the county jail are men who are honestly searching for a new place to live and are willing to do something to provide for themselves if given an opportunity. He told of the establish-

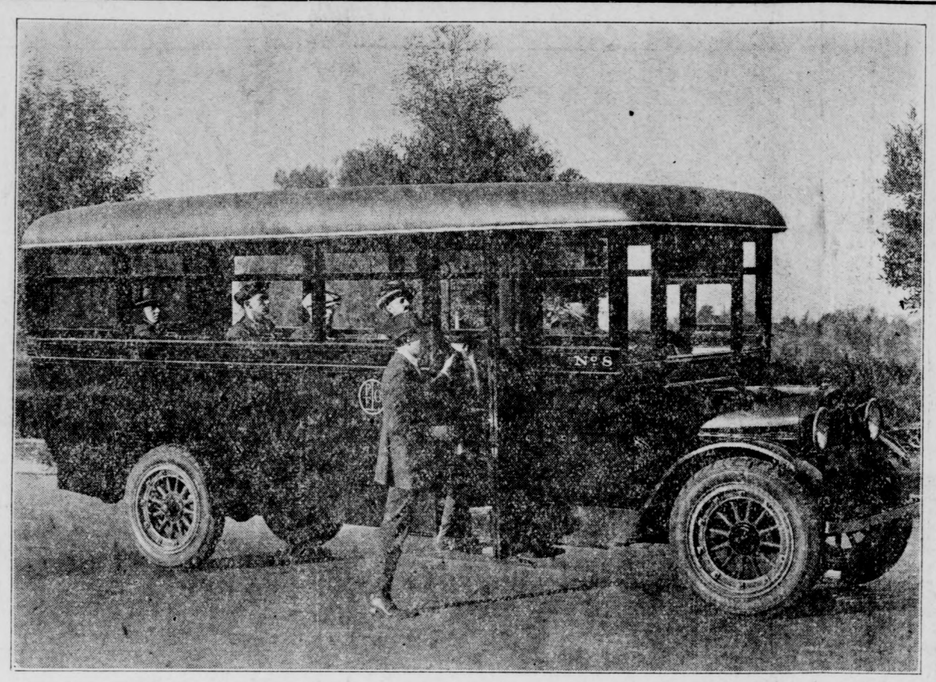
Pacific Electric Railway Company's Bus Belt Line Starts Today in Glendale; Twenty-Minute Service to Connect With Train System



Here's how you'll board the new Pacific Electric belt line motor bus connecting with their Glendale-Los Angeles cars. The bus will stop at the near right hand street intersections along its route. Another machine will be added to the local line as soon as it can be built.

For the accommodation of commuters the Pacific Electric railroad through the Pacific Electric Land company has established a belt bus line which commenced operation in Glendale this morning.

The route is from Broadway and Adams, south on Adams to Acacia, west on Acacia to Boynton, south on Boynton to Palmer, west on Palmer to Glendale avenue, south on Glendale avenue to Cypress, west on Cypress to Brand boulevard where cars will be met every twenty minutes, continuing west on Cypress to San Fernando road, northwest on San Fernando road to Pacific, north on Pacific to Doran street, the other terminus.

This makes junction points at Cypress and Brand and at Adams and Broadway, somewhat different than originally planned. A new stop has been made by the railroad at Cypress street, where passengers desiring the bus service will transfer.

The service will start at 5:56 a. m. at Doran and Pacific avenues daily, and continue so as to meet the last car at 12:54 a. m. R. R. Stubbs, formerly a conductor on the Glendale line, will be one of the two operators.

E. H. Sharpe, general agent of the Pacific Electric, was accompanied on the initial trip of the bus yesterday by W. C. White, superintendent of the western division and Jack Glancy, traveling passenger agent. James M. Rhoades, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; City Manager W. H. Reeves, Police Chief A. O. Martin and others also went the route with the bus and declared it a great service to the citizens.

After a thorough inspection of the institution, a banquet was served in the lunch room where meals are furnished to the hungry at cost.

The following Glendale men were present: H. A. Wilson, W. D. Root, Roy B. Coeur, F. M. Farrand, W. A. Webber, Charles M. Pease, Arthur G. Lindley, W. F. Tower, T. H. Addison, Mark Russell, T. A. ## Foothill Association Seeks Postal Delivery

The meeting of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association, of which E. H .Botsford is president, was held last night in the Botsford home on Glenwood road, and many matters of interest to the northwestern section of the city were discussed at that time, to be taken up at future meetings for definite action.

The members of the association have been endeavoring to get delivery service through the Glendale postoffice instead of Burbank, and a petition was circulated last night for that purpose. Another matter of importance taken up at last night's meeting was that of continuing Kenneth road west from its present termination at Grand View, diagonally to a junction with Eighth street. The matter of additional street lighting was also discussed.

At the meeting last night it was announced that as an association no action is being taken in regard to the proposed high school sites, although some of the members of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association have joined residents of the western section of the city in the organization of a Greater Glendale Improvement association.

The large warehouse on the Botsford property, which has been known as Botsford Hall, was destroyed by the recent wind storm, and the meetings of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association will now be held in the Botsford residence.

STANLEY WILSON OF EDUCATION BOARD SPEAKER HERE

Teacher, Not Police, to Solve 'Red' Problem, He States; Interest in Schools

"There is nothing so essentially American as the American school system," declared Stanley B. Wilson of the State Board of Education last night during the official speech of the week in observance of National Education Week.

"From the very beginning of our colonial life education has been recognized as one of our vital needs.

"There was a time when I looked upon education as a special science which only the favored few could expect to understand. The more I studied it, the more intimate I became acquainted with it, the more I realized its vital connection with the concerns of modern life. Education is not a hard and fast thing. Education has always been in a state of constant change? We have gradually transferred the school from an instrument of the church into a civil institution.

"The real, profound purpose of education is to develop a quality of citizenship able to conduct the affairs of today efficiently and happily. Education is most intimately involved with American civilization.

Congratulates Glendale

"I congratulate the people of Glendale for their interest in education. I want to say that there is no higher, no holier calling than that of teacher. Education is the soul of civilization.

"I am not a militarist; on the contrary, I believe that miltarism is one of the blackest blots upon modern civilization. I believe in disarmament—in world disarmament, and I want to see the United States take the lead in making a scrap heap of the heathenish machinery and devices of warfare. But I believe this must be a concerted action on the part of all the nations of the world.

"America's greatest war is before her. The foe will not be Europe or Asia or Mexico, but ourselves, right here at home. It is not a war against European autocracy, Asiatic encroachment or Mexican belliger-

PRINCIPAL OF FIRST SCHOOL HERE THROWS LIGHT ON EARLY HISTORY OF FAST GROWING COMMUNITY

George D. Howland, Los Angeles Attorney, Tells How He Borrowed Horse to Ford Flooded Los Angeles River in Winter of 1883

By C. C. CLUTE

AT a mass meeting held at the school last night the name of Glendale was chosen for our city."

"On account of the heavy rains washing away both the Southern Pacific and the East Los Angeles bridges the school principal could not make the trip in a cart from Los Angeles this morning and had to come on horseback. Glendale has been completely disconnected with Los Angeles for three days due to the recent floods. It is one of the worst winters we have experienced here."

"The pupils of the school will give a Christmas entertainment at the school house on Christmas eve. A program of songs, speeches and dialogues has been prepared. A platform made of planks has been constructed in one end of the school room for the occasion.

"The principal has been getting some excellent results in school work this year and there is some talk of raising his salary next year from $82.50 per month to $87."

"THE ATTENDANCE IS INCREASING SO RAPIDLY AT SCHOOL THAT IT WILL SOON BE NECESSARY TO CLEAR AWAY SOME OF THE SCRUB OAK AND BRUSH IN ORDER TO ENLARGE THE PLAYGROUNDS."

So one might have read in the school items during the early history of the organized school in Glendale. The first school, where both grade work and high school courses were given, was that of the Sepulveda District school, situated on the present site of the Cerritos Avenue school. It was opened in September, 1883, and taught by Principal George D. Howland, now an attorney residing at 1559 West Adams street, Los Angeles.

The first school board was composed of Frank Dunsmore, clerk; H. J. Crow and George Englehart. The initial enrollment was 47, which increased to 75 at the close of the first term. Every class from beginners to first year high school was taught. Mr. Howland was principal for two years, having as assistant the second year, Miss Fannie Quesnel.

Glendale Chosen Town's Name

It was during the second year that the name of "Glendale" was chosen for the city. A big mass meeting was held at the school and representatives from every section were present. The name of Glendale was proposed and accepted, though Mr. Howland says he cannot remember who proposed the name.

Mr. Howland recalls very clearly many incidents connected with his two years of teaching in Glendale and in speaking of them, said:

"It was the first building in Glendale built strictly for an organized school, and it was modern in all respects at that time. One thing which has always been so characteristic of Glendale is that whatever it does, it does well. The first year I drove back and forth from Los Angeles, riding in a platform spring cart. That winter was the worst one for floods Glendale had had for a number of years.

Borrowed Telegrapher's Horse

"I remember one big rain washed out both the Southern Pacific railroad bridge and the East Los Angeles bridge. At that time John C. Sherer, now city treasurer of Glendale, was a telegraph operator at First and Spring streets, and I borrowed his saddle horse to get out to school that day. I had all I could do to get across the Southern Pacific bridge.

"The school district comprised everything within the lines of Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Fernando and Cahuenga. During the second year at a mass meeting held at the schoolhouse the name was chosen for the place, "Glendale" being proposed and accepted.

"The initial enrollment was 47 which totaled 75 at the end of the term, and I had all classes from beginners to high school, Will Byram and Elsworth Coleman being two boys who took first year high school work.

Had Two Classes at Once

"I had to arrange classes on a schedule of from five to fifteen minutes each and at times it was necessary for two classes to recite at once, the advanced class in arithmetic

Mrs. L. T. Rowley From Coachella Trip

Mrs. L. T. Rowley of 334 West Vine street has returned from a very interesting trip to Coachella, where she was the guest of her cousin, W. H. Nance, and his family. Mr. Nance has fifty acres of cotton, and is one of the few growers who are picking this year's crop, as he has it secured by contract. Frost has touched the volunteer cotton just a trifle, but no serious damage has been done. Mrs. Rowley reports the weather fine and very little wind. She motored from Coachella to Anaheim with a nephew on Sunday to spend the night with her sister, and found that the storm had caused considerable damage in that section. On the grounds at her sister's home, several very old cypress trees that were a landmark in the neighborhood, were uprooted, and not one left standing.

ABOUT 1100 PUPILS ARE ENROLLED IN ENGLISH WORK

Forty-one Classes and Nine Teachers at High School; Three Years Required

The following is contributed to The Glendale Evening News in connection with American Education week:

The English department is, necessarily, the largest in the high school since this subject is the most fundamental, the basis of all the other studies. Of the total enrollment of about 1200 students, nearly 1100 are enrolled in the English classes. There are forty-one classes taught by nine different teachers, eight of whom give all their time to English. In addition to the regular courses, this department has charge of the school plays, debates, and oratorical contests, and it provides about three "pay assemblies" each year, that is, it endeavors to bring to the students, for a nominal price, some particularly inspiring literary program, or some famous literary person, whom, otherwise, they would not have an opportunity to hear. For the last two years, the department has used the observance of "Good English Week" as a means of stressing the importance and strengthening the motives for studying this subject.

The regular English courses have a divided aim and a correspondingly divided content. There are the practical subjects, including grammar and composition, practical public speaking and journalism. The aim of these courses is to teach the mastery of the English language for the practical uses of life. The slogan of the department is a quotation from George Herbert Palmer: "He alone is a well-educated person who can use his language with power and beauty."

Individual Attention

Since English is compulsory for three years, even the students who fail must be retained in the classes, and special provision is made for them. These are sometimes students who have little linguistic ability or taste though they may be very capable in some other lines; or who come from other states where the schools are less efficient, or who come from families where the parents and, consequently, the children "don't see no use in grammar." These students take their work in separate classes where they can receive individual attention, and no part of the course requires so much of patient reasonableness and humanness in its presentation as the Special English.

Then there is the cultural aim, the hope of developing in the students a love of good reading, and the power to discriminating between what is really good, whether it be old or new, and what is loose, careless, or inartistic in style, and cheap, sensational, or essentially false in content, so, out of the whole wonderful heritage of English speaking people, a few pieces of literature are chosen to be read by the classes, not to be analyzed and picked to pieces, but to be understood, appreciated, and enjoyed. Besides the literature read in class, there is a list of about 350 titles from which the student chooses other books to read by himself and make reports to the teacher.

Results Are Valuable

The results from this part of the English course are not so tangible, but they are even more deeply important and valuable. What a boy or girl reads changes the habit of this thinking, the very structure of his mind and soul.

The young person who does not read much of what is good is missing one of the greatest forces for his mental, moral and spiritual growth. From books he may get quiet but satisfying and even thrilling entertainment: the unconscious acquisition of a good vocabulary and power of expression; information about other ages and places; knowledge of other people's lives and understanding of their thoughts and motives; the development of the imagination; the enrichment of the emotional life, all intangible values, but more vital than any material success.

'Not Police, But Teacher'

"You could corral every red in the United States, put them in jail or drown them. You would not have solved the problem. There is only one solution for the problem. It is not the police, but the teacher.

"Citizenship is one of the holiest words in American speech. Citizenship means devotion to the common interests. It is a spirit which takes possession of the soul. It is public unselfishness. To develop it is the great work of the public school.

"Do you want morality? Teach it in the public school. Do you want a high sense of civic righteousness? Teach it in the public school. Citizens cannot possibly rise any higher than their school.

"Citizenship is the soul of government. We can't have good laws without good lawmakers and we cannot have good lawmakers without good schools.

"The interest people manifest in their schools is a test of citizenship. You don't dare to be the kind of people you used to be! You have got to be a better people than you were in 1914."

On account of the small audience at the high school last night, no program was held there.

Preceding the speech of the evening a musical program was given by a number of pupils from the intermediate and high schools. Florence Rattray sang two solos, accompanied by Bonnie Jean Lockwood at the piano. Helen White whistled twice with Miss Gladys Sharp of the Intermediate faculty at the piano. Miss Marjorie Baily played two harp selections and Miss Hazel Linkogel played two violin solos with Miss Lois Olmstead at the piano.

V. M. Hollister, president of the Glendale Chamber of Commtrce, made a brief speech.

"It seems to me that President Harding has done one of the finest things that could be done in calling a national educational week. One of its purposes is to show the people what the schools are doing. It seems to me that more than one week a year should be devoted to the purpose. The large number of young men in our army, who could neither read nor write, speaks for the striking need for more schools."

County Officials Are Speakers at Meeting of Club

ment and success of the honor camps, where the men are taught road constructing. After being paroled a large number of these men are later employed by the county road department.

At the close of his talk, Mr. Traeger stated that fifteen years ago the average of the inmates of the county jail was a little over forty years and at present the average age is less than twenty-five years. The conservation of youth, both of boys and girls, he stated, is one of the largest problems before the people.

County Hospital Overcrowded

Mr. McLaughlin, supervisor of the outdoor relief department of the county charities, was the next speaker. He stated that the overcrowded condition is also prevalent at the county hospital, which was built to accommodate comfortably 950 patients and which is today housing 1161, and at the county farm, which is capable of taking care of 740 and today has 972.

The outdoor relief division, he stated, has an entire force of sixty-two, most of whom are women. They are caring for 3172 families, or approximately 13,000 individuals, whose problems include all of the troubles from the cradle to the grave. He told of personal experiences with some of the charity cases and how the force was trying to carry out a system of teaching these people to help themselves and make them independent. Salvaging humanity, he stated, was the big work of the department.

J. B. Bean, of the county board of supervisors, was the next speaker. He explained how it was planned to remedy the conditions at the county jail, hospital, poor farm, etc. He stated that he and Supervisor Cogswell had just returned from a trip throughout the east, during which tney visited the various city and county jails.

Would Combine Jails

Mr. Bean stated that it was planned to combine the Los Angeles city and county jails in one large new building which will face on Temple street and will contain eleven stories. In that building which will be called the Hall of Justice will be the sheriff's office, police department, police court city prosecuting attorney, district attorney, public defender, grand jury rooms, superior courts, justice court and jail.

The most successful way of handling prisoners, he found on his visit to the various jails, was by segregation, and this can be properly done in the new building. He explained in detail the various proposed improvements to be incorporated in the new building.

Mr. Bean stated that it was proposed to build bungalows at Olive View Sanitarium, where all of the tubercular patients will be taken from the county hospital. He stated that it was necessary to spend a large sum of money for the county hospital and also at the county farm and Olive View Sanitarium, and that it would be necessary to call a bond issue for this purpose, and urged the club women to support such an issue.

Dr. Jessie Russell spoke briefly of the meeting of the League of the Southwest, which will meet next week at Riverside. The plans and purposes of the organization, she stated, were to promote anything of general interest to the southwest. The one big topic now being undertaken is that of the Boulder dam on the Colorado river, an irrigation project of tremendous interest, she stated.

Nazimova in 'Camille' Is Dazzling in Beauty

Among the many precedents that have been established by Nazimova in her elaborate production of "Camille," for Metro, now showing at the T. D. & L. theatre, is one involving the costumes in which she appears.

For a French fabric maker was called into conference to plan a new material, Parisian looms were called into service to weave it, and Miss Natacha Rambova designed one garment that will be seen for a few minutes only. Fifteen costumes worn during the different stages of the production are unique in their originality.

For the opera scene, Nazimova will wear an opera gown of gold metallic cloth. Fashioned of one straight piece of the material, it is wound about the body and caught over each shoulder with a narrow strap. One single fastening holds the gown in place. Two silver camelias are the only adornments to the costume.

With this gown is worn a striking opera cloak of black and silver cloth, studded with heavy silver camelias.

For a Parisian street scene, Nazimova wears a black velvet costume embroidered in silver. With this is worn a high fur hat of silver beaver and an elaborate Venetian cloak trimmed with black and silver fur.

In the gambling scenes, Nazimova wears a stunning gown of black velvet, having a solid jet bodice. A large camelia in cut steel beads, worn in front, is the only ornament to the costume. For the garden party, light summery frocks are worn.

In the death scene, where the ill-fated Camille succumbs, Nazimova wears an exquisite negligee of silver grey chiffon velvet. You will want to see this array today!

PLEA FOR RACIAL EQUALITY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A strong appeal for racial equality and a warning that above all issues now before the conference that of racial equality must ultimately be the only real solution of international disharmony was made here by Sennosuke Yokota, president of the Japanese bureau of legislation. Yokota declared that America alone can solve the great problem of mankind—that of racial equality, because "the Creator had bestowed such special blessing upon the American people in the richness and varied resources of her vast territory."

Bebe Daniels' Latest Picture at Glendale

She craved speed, did pretty Betty Lee, reckless heroine of "The Speed Girl," Bebe Daniels' latest Realart picture, which opens a two-day run this afternoon at the Glendale Theatre. She craved speed, and she got it.

This swiftly moving comedy drama, written especially for Miss Daniels' use by Elmer Harris, supervisor of the west coast Realart studio, is a gentle satire on the modern mania for speed, and amusingly shows how modern children and young people develop a craze for swift locomotion.

As the daring little girl who always drove her kiddie car and scooter, her bicycle, her pony and finally, when she grew older, her motor car and her aeroplane, a little faster than anybody else dared to, Miss Daniels has a role admirably suited to her type and temperament, and one in which she declared herself absolutely at home.

Bebe would be over tonight to say "hello" to her home-town folks were it possible, but she is working overtime to get her next feature ready for early release.

Clyde Cook will be seen also in his new comedy, "The Toreador." Aesop's Fables and the Latest Pathe News complete the bill.

The four women's teams, of which Mrs. Spencer Robinson, Mrs. Calvin Whiting, Mrs. Warren Roberts and Miss Eva Daniels are captains, have secured seventy-eight new members, and the men's team, of which W. S. Rattray is captain, have secured twenty, eleven voluntary memberships coming in through the mails.

Millions of People in This Country Cannot Write

BY HELEN TOLAR PAYNE

The late world war brought out the deplorable fact that over 5,000,000 people in our own country cannot write. As a result many men in trench and camp were earnestly striving to learn any form of writing in order to communicate with their loved ones at home.

It is our chief aim that, through the enthusiasm of the teachers, the pupils will realize that legible and beautiful writing is numbered among the arts.

The Zaner method of writing is the system adopted by the state of California and has been used in the Glendale city schools for the past eight years.

This method teaches the use of the arm in writing with as little aid from the fingers as possible. In this way greater uniformity and accuracy are attained in making each letter.

It has often been predicted that the typewriter would displace the pen, but instead it has demanded an increased speed from the penman. To acquire any amount of speed with the fingers is difficult while in arm movement the maximum speed for making some letters is 120 per minute, and the minimum is thirty-five per minute. Excellent forms are made by eighth grade boys and girls at this rate.

Our best arm movers receive Zaner certificates for proficiency in writing.

The supervision of this subject consists in helping the teachers to learn the pedagogy of writing; in presenting model lessons filled with an abundance of enthusiasm and keen interest to the classes.

Mathematics Foundation to Much of Advanced Work

By A. L. FERGUSON
Glendale Union High School

The Three "R's" serve the same purpose in a high school curriculum as a machinist's tools do in the shaping of the finished product and in many instances are as little thought of when the result is measured. Mathematics is no exception to this for it is too often taken for granted or in some cases considered a necessary evil. It is absolutely essential as a foundation for all scientific, engineering and advanced mathematic work and can justify its place in the curriculum by the training derived from its study.

The habits formed by the study of mathematics are those of accuracy, neatness, and clear, logical thought. There is no other study that gives a student an opportunity to judge of his own work and to check his results for a piece of work correctly done. The result is not a subject of personal opinion; it is either right or wrong and the student has the satisfaction of working to a definite end with the added satisfaction of knowing at the time the work is completed whether it is correct or not.

A full four-year course in mathematics is offered in the Glendale Union high school as follows:

First year, algebra.
Second year, plane geometry.
Third year, advanced algebra.
Fourth year, trigonometry and solid geometry.

This course gives an opportunity for students who do not desire to specialize in mathematics, engineering, or scientific work to take the first two years of mathematics and then devote their time to other lines, while those who expect to go on with work requiring more than the first two years of mathematics may continue their work for two more years. The four-year course will provide an excellent foundation, and give them an opportunity, when they go to college, to take more advanced work, and not be forced to spend their time doing high school work while attending college. The full four-year course is a requirement for entrance to all scientific or engineering courses in college or university. A minimum of two years is a requirement of a majority of the high school courses and is absolutely necessary as a preparation for upper science work.

It will be of interest to note the number of students enrolled in the different courses:

|---|---|
| First year algebra | 319 |
| Plane geometry | 199 |
| Advanced algebra | 49 |
| Trigonometry | 18 |

First Visit to Farm Is Described by This Girl

By DOROTHY DOANE
A-Sixth, Broadway School

It was in the latter part of March, four years ago. I was going on my first visit to a farm. It was in North Dakota and the snow was blowing outside. I started about three o'clock in the afternoon. The big sleigh that came after us was drawn by two large, spirited horses.

We passed many large farmhouses. In one half-hour, we were at our stopping place. It was a large yellow house with a red barn.

We were soon out and going up the steps, the odor of a fine supper came from within. Before we ate I went to investigate. The turkeys, pigs, chickens and horses all were of the greatest interest to me. I was told that the cows were not in yet.

Soon right behind me, I heard a great gong. I didn't know what it was, but I saw a lot of workmen and other people hurrying in the house. It was probably the dinner gong, but what a large one it was! Soon I found myself joining the rest. There was a very long table, with at least twenty people at it. It was a "farm dinner" as one might say.

After supper it began to grow dark and I was looking for the electric lights when a lady brought in a lamp. It made a very weird light.

At 8 o'clock, I went to bed. The room was a large one, with stiff, old-fashioned furniture. It was very cold and not like our city one.

In the morning I looked out, the snow was blowing outside and drifts were packed around the house. We had planned a sleigh-ride this morning and after breakfast we all got coats, sweaters, and furs on. The sleigh called at 9 o'clock. We were all packed and started off.

We had a jolly time and every one had a large appetite when we returned. We roasted apples and nuts around the fire-place.

The next day I went home, thinking my visit a success.

It's Necessary to Educate for Self, Home and Country

By ELSIE WHITNEY
A-Eighth, Cerritos School

Education! How little we realize what it will mean to us in later years. It is the key to all success and without it we, the school children of today, will be found lacking and incompetent when facing life in time to come.

Education is advantageous in many ways to the person who has attained some of its numerous powers. If one is educated, it is possible to obtain a good position with excellent pay, for people throughout the world are looking for men and women thoroughly equipped for their life work.

Education wins for one the companionship of cultured, refined people who otherwise would be beyond one's circle of acquaintances.

Then, the best reason of all, one makes a better citizen, for one votes for better officials and better laws, and is better in all civic duties.

So, for our own personal benefit, for the good of our community, and, greater still, for the good of our country, it is necessary to be truly educated physically, mentally, and morally.

Ireland a Free State
Keep Out the Parasites
Ultra-Prosperity Here
Then Their Eyes Opened

By Gil A. Cowan

IRELAND is to be a free state!

There is gladsome news for every son of Erin in the land of freedom and the seventh of December will be the Fourth of July on the Emerald Isle.

For ages the Irish have sought a free state and the same constitutional rights as Canada, Australia and over overseas dominions. Of course, the treaty effecting peace with the Sinn Fein still has to be approved by parliament and the Ulster government, but it so protects all interests, it is believed, that opposition is unlikely.

In Glendale there are hundreds from the "ould sod" who will be glad to hear that civil war is over "over there."

With an unprecedented influx of unemployed, as well as the usual crop of crooks who plan on preying on the rich tourists, there is every reason for the police in southern California to be ready for almost any emergency.

Two officers have been killed in the last twenty-four hours and as such events usually run in cycles there are five or six more policemen, constables and sheriffs who might as well make their wills. However, instead of offering this sacrifice to the idle class the tax-paying public should have its officials provide rock piles for the entertainment of gun toters, hoboes and other undesirables.

If California is to remain a good place for tourists it must remove the most vicious parasites. It will take more police to do this and it would not be a bad idea for the southern counties to have nation-wide espionage service to deal with criminals.

Few of the cases clogging the courts of Los Angeles are among people who claim California as their home. The Burch murder trial starts at Chicago; the Peete case has Denver as its beginning; and so on through the docket.

Real regret must be expressed that finances in the east will not permit California to expand more rapidly. If money were available there is no end to the improvements which could be profitably made on the west coast today.

Glendale citizens, for instance, are buying and improving property to the very limit of their pocketbooks, but extenuating circumstances make it impossible for them to do what they would like to. One man residing on a certain avenue had to buy a quarter interest in a project because his capital in the east cannot be turned.

Another man has a million dollars sewed up in one sack and cramps his operations here accordingly. Still another man is milking a local business to pay taxes on his eastern property which has failed to bring him a dime.

So considering everything the prosperity here is ultra-prosperity in the eyes of economists. Any town which is able to "get by" and grow some is prosperous. But when it comes to doing like Glendale in the last 11 months, it is a sure-fire success as a city!

Glendale on Monday was host to high Salt Lake railroad officials.

Yesterday the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric had a number of its executive personnel here.

W. H. Comstock, general manager of the Salt Lake route of the Union Pacific system, was astounded at the growth here.

R. E. Kelly, of the Southern Pacific, could hardly believe his eyes as he looked at streets where homes had never been before.

E. H. Sharpe, of the Pacific Electric, was acquainted with Glendale's rapid strides, but he was impressed with the modernity of the institutions such as the Chamber of Commerce and The Glendale Evening News.

THREE R'S PLACED PROMINENTLY IN SCHOOL'S WORK

Plenty of Time Is Given to Solid Subjects, Declares Central Avenue's Principal

By ANNIE L. M'INTYRE,
Principal Central Avenue School

The criticism is sometimes made that reading, language, spelling, writing and arithmetic are neglected in the schools nowadays and that not enough time is given to the study of the so-called solid subjects. As a matter of fact, they receive more than three-fourths of the time.

When we stop to consider that when a little child goes to school he cannot read at all and that he knows nothing about it, it is quite wonderful that at the end of four or five weeks he is able to begin the reading of a primer. Enough of the power to sound words, and to put thought into the printed page has been developed so that he is able to help himself. He reads four or five primers in four and a half months.

The study of language and spelling is very closely related to the study of reading. Story telling, dramatizing, memorizing and the playing of language games are all in use.

Most Difficult of All

Along with this the study of the art of writing—the most difficult of all subjects to learn—is begun. Do you realize what a difficult thing writing is with its loops and curves and slants, small letters and capital letters, letters alone and letters joined to other letters? Much attention is paid to a healthful sitting position while writing. We give fifteen minutes daily in the first three grades, and twenty minutes daily in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades to the study of this subject. As soon as a child learns to write he begins to write words and sentences.

Reading is taught daily in the first six grades. There are two kinds of reading, oral and silent. "Particular emphasis, especially in the later grades, should be placed upon the complete presentation of a topic by a pupil standing in front of the class and making the group understand what he has to say without questions by the teacher. More and more this is coming to be emphasized as a means of good teaching everywhere and pupils are being trained to stand before a group of their classmates and give an intelligent account of anything of which they have adequate knowledge without the painful tooth-pulling process of extracting ideas. In this way the course in silent reading correlates with the other most important part of the English course—oral and written composition and lays the foundation for habits that will function in all lines of school endeavor."—Lewis and Rowland.

Should Love Language

A child should be taught to love and respect his language. Great care is taken in the teaching of memory work so that the child is taught to appreciate a beautiful poem and not to hate it. We teach from six to eight poems in each grade.

How we drill and drill upon the correct use of punctuation marks! A few sentences or a paragraph are written nearly every day, and the child is made to correct his mistakes.

A little red spider no larger than a period is very interesting to a child. But periods, question marks, commas and quotation marks are all dead things. Interest in them must be acquired. Please take time to read some of the articles that were written by our children and are publishd in our daily papers this week.

Spelling is taught daily. Children are taught to spell the words in common use.

Numbering is begun in the first grade. Numbering with a little adding, subtracting and multiplying are taught in the second grade. Long division is developed in the fourth grade. These fundamental processes are applied in the remainder of the grammar grades. From forty-five to sixty minutes are given to this subject, daily, in the upper grades.

Invited to Schools

There is a difference between knowledge ABOUT and knowledge OF a subject. How long must you watch another drive an automobile before you can drive one yourself? You may know all the movements, but unless you know how to use them you will not get far. A child may be able to repeat the multiplication tables, but unless he can use them it amounts to nothing,—worse than nothing, because he thinks he knows that part of arithmetic, when he only knows something ABOUT it. Accuracy in arithmetic is most important. So in arithmetic, as in written language, the child must correct his mistakes, and much drill is given.

Visit our schools and see for yourself what is being done. If you cannot come this week, come anytime. You are always welcome.

Here's Story About One Boy Who Was Not Careful

By CAROL PAYNE
B-Fourth, Central School

Now, I will tell you about a little boy that was not careful.

There was once a little boy whose name was Jimmy. He had a long way to go to school. Every day when Jimmy was going to school he had to cross a boulevard.

One day it happened that when he was going to school he didn't see the street car and the motor man didn't have time to stop the car.

Jimmy was not killed, but very badly injured.

I will tell you some more about "Safety First" some other time.

The oldest university known to history is the White Deer Grotto university in Kiangsi province, China. It was founded in 960 A. D.

How good it feels. Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hawking, snuffling, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure.—Advertisement.

URGE PEOPLE VISIT SCHOOLS AND SEE WHAT IS DOING

Those in Charge of National Education Week Call on Citizens for Interest

George U. Moyse, principal of the Glendale Union High school, has issued the following statement in regard to National Education Week:

"What we hope to get from this week is a much better understanding by the people of Glendale of the need for more education for more people and a realization of the way in which the schools are able to bring this about and the way they are succeeding in doing it. The movement is one of the most vital that we have had in a long time.

"Statistics gathered at different times for different purposes show a surprising amount of illiteracy, even here in California, where we take it for granted that everyone is well educated. These statistics show us that we have an altogether worse condition than we had supposed.

It's Big Problem

"To do away with illiteracy is a big problem. Consequently, there is for the schools the definite responsibility of doing everything possible.

"National Education Week is backed by the National Education association, which knows the status of education, and the American Legion, which found so many of its own members suffering from illiteracy.

"We, as school people, are taking the matter up to show the patrons of the schools what we are doing, the possibilities that we have, and asking for their co-operation. We are calling people's attention to the schools and getting them thinking of their problems.

Invited to Schools

"The plan that we had of putting all of the school children in a parade proved so big that we could not carry it out, in detail. We wanted to show how big a thing our school system is here in Glendale.

"The great purpose for the remainder of the week is to have visitors come to the schools and see the things being done by the schools. Most citizens and parents have taken it for granted that the schools are all right and that the children are all getting an education and that there is no need for them to give the subject a thought. It is a matter of the utmost importance to every person."

With his first watch a small boy has the time of his life.

TERRORS GET CINCH ON FIRST PLACE, ELKS' BOWLING

Games Will Be Completed by End of Week; Big Battle Is Expected Tonight

By HOWARD M'GILLIS
Sporting Editor The Evening News

Increasing their lead to three full games during last week's play, the Terrors of the Glendale Elks' House Bowling league cinched first place for the season, which will be completed this week. There is an "extremely bare" possibility that the "Terrible Turks" will have to share the victor's chair, however, the runner-up Jays having a chance to tie the leaders tonight when they will come together in what promises to be the most exciting match on the entire schedule.

The goat of the invincible Terrors during the past week happened to be the E. Z.'s, who had previously been considered as the logical winners of the race. But one contest behind the pacemakers before the match it was expected that the "Easies" would at least take the odd game, thereby annexing first place. Their ambitions were rudely undermined by the never faltering Terrors, who continued in their winning stride by wading through to three straight victories.

Jays Hold Position

The Jays, although defeated two out of three by the eccentrically inclined P. D. Q.'s, managed to retain their place in the league standing only because the E. Z.'s lost three straight. According to "Jimmy" Apffel, however, the boys were "just taking things easy" and will be "up and at 'em" again this week.

The K. P.'s, by drawing a "bye" last week, were passed in the standing by the P. D. Q.'s, who are now lodged in fifth place with a percentage of .444. Friday night's match, which was scheduled to be played between the "kitchen mechanics" and the cellar champion wizards, was postponed on account of the installation of the Ventura Elks' lodge.

Bert Ward, secretary "de luxe," official statistician and general promoter of the league, has announced that the winners of the seventeen prizes will be presented with their trophies on the evening of the big New Year's Eve entertainment and dance. With the leading places in the various classifications bunched together in the standings the remaining games give promise of being the most hotly-contested of the schedule, with over half of the competitors striving to win individual prizes.

Timmons Makes 241 Score

Art Timmons, the sensational "dark horse" of the league-leading Terrors, must have had a hunch when his team played the E. Z.'s last Tuesday night. His previous score of 222, which was made several weeks ago, had stood high for a month when he stepped forth in the second game with the "Easies" and hung up the remarkable total of 241 pins. The record was made in the "nick of time," however, as "Bullet" Grenfell, who replaced Wm. Viohl on the P. D. Q. team, bowled a 226 game in Thursday night's match with the Jays.

The standing of the teams:

| | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Terrors | 14 | 4 | .778 |
| Jays | 11 | 7 | .611 |
| E. Z.'s | 10 | 8 | .556 |
| Buzzards | 9 | 9 | .500 |
| P. D. Q.'s | 8 | 10 | .444 |
| K. P.'s | 7 | 8 | .426 |
| Bambinos | 7 | 11 | .389 |
| Wizards | 3 | 12 | .200 |

The league's schedule was originally planned to be completed on Friday, December 2, this week's matches being those postponed from "Armistice Week," when bowling was called off to help the local American Legionnaires stage their celebration. The remaining games will be as follows: Wednesday, Jays and Terrors; Thursday, Buzzards and Wizards; Friday, K. P.'s and Bambinos.

F. R. Buchanan Attends Course for Beekeepers

F. R. Buchanan, 242 North Orange street, is attending an advanced course of instruction for commercial beekeepers given this week under the auspices of the University of California at the Exposition building.

As president of the Fraternal Honey Producers' association, Mr. Buchanan yesterday entertained two of the leading authorities in the country on apiculture, Dr. E. F. Phillips, who is in charge of apicultural investigations in the bureau of entomology at Washington, and George S. Demuth, associate editor of Gleanings in Bee Culture and formerly assistant apiculturist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Buchanan is the largest keeper of migratory bees in this part of the country. He maintains 600 stands or hives which he has moved from spot to spot in order that the bees may get honey from changing crops.

ENTERTAINS LATIN CLASS

The members of the Latin class of the Intermediate school were entertained Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. R. C. Horner, 432 West Broadway, the object being to organize a club. Those present were Alberta Plasterer, Frances Bourne, Gladys Jones, Dorothea Humans, Elizabeth Walker, Mabel Horner, Virginia Horner, Dewey McCourt, Lyle Wheeler and Wallace Trau. Miss Jackson, teacher of the class, was the guest of honor. Interesting games were played and refreshments served. The house was decorated with Christmas motifs.

When Satan employs idle hands the work is always well done.

Principal of First School Here Tells of Early History

would be set to work at the board while the first grade, numbering about fifteen, would be heard in reading.

"We followed the county course of study very closely, and the pupils responded keenly. The county superintendent came out to visit us one afternoon and said it was the most rapid-working school he had ever seen.

"The first library books in Glendale I purchased the first school year in 1883 with school money. We didn't have many volumes, but they were well selected and kept at the school where the pupils read them eagerly.

Abreast with Times

"We had everything as modern as it was possible to have at that time, but it would seem rather odd today, perhaps be called unsanitary. We had to carry our drinking water in two large galvanized water buckets from C. B. Erskine's place. Instead of individual drinking cups we had two dippers; and instead of individual towels we had a community towel.

"There were cactus and sagebrush all around, and what is now the center of Glendale was at that time unsettled. It was purchased in five and ten-acre tracts and the sage brush cleared off. There was a meat market down in the Tropico district, but no stores were built during the first or second months of the school term.

"J. J. Griffith, the donor of Griffith Park, kept bachelor quarters in an old adobe close by, and one day he stopped me as I was going by and said he was making arrangements to bring his parents, brothers and sisters from Wales. The family eventually arrived and the children drove to school each day from Griffith park.

'Them' Were the Days

"We didn't have movies in those days but we had Christmas entertainments and programs at the last day of school that were attended by everyone. We would build a platform of planks in one end of the school room and get M. Erskine's organ. Every pupil would participate in the program, and everyone enjoyed it. I was just talking to one of those pupils the other day and he said he believed the programs they used to give were better than many presented now—that is the response and appreciation were more evident.

"I can recall a good many names of those who were first enrolled. Among them were Charles Dunsmore, John Hunter, Nellie Erskine, Tessie Willis, Jesse F. Stine, Charles Moore, Shaw, Frank and Roy Peckham, Elwood Patterson, Mary Ayres, H. W. Shaw, Frank and Roy Peckham, Charles Roberts, Ed Ayres, Charles Haley, Harry Foster, Joe Willis and Jessie Bullis, Albert and Nettie Stevens, John, Sam, Charles and Addie Hunter, Jerome, Nellie and Frank Erskine, Will Patterson, Agnes Hawley, Fred Hawley, George Barber, Leeta Barber and a number of others.

"I occasionally visit Glendale but so many changes have taken place in that fast growing city that it is with difficulty that I recognize some of the old landmarks."

Briefly Outlines Purpose of American Education Week

By GERTRUDE TRESTON
B-Sixth, Cerritos school

American Education week is the week of December 5. The purpose is to show what the children do in school. The parents are invited to come to the school their children attend and see what kind of work they are doing.

Education is a wondreful thing; it is useful and every parent ought to see that their children get one. People who grow up without an education find out that they have a harder time getting through this world. If you wish your children to get a good education see that they get their lessons and that they have good health above all things.

The whole week of December 5-10 will be for the parents to visit the schools and it would be nice for every one to come. Monday, December 5, they will have a parade. All the children in the Glendale schools will ride in automobiles. The next four days will be for the parents to look around and see the work the children are doing.

So all I have to say is, see that your children get a good education. Visit school during this week, see what we are doing and help us have better schools in Glendale.

First Airplane Journey Is Topic of This Story

By ALICE CHAFFEE
A-Eighth, Cerritos School

Could it be possible that they did not hear my calls? Again I called and listened intently, but only to hear my echo. Was it true that I was lost—separated from the rest of my party in the mountains with evening fast approaching?

Just as the sun was casting its last radiant rays over the snow capped peaks, the purr of an engine was heard above me. I looked up to see an aeroplane circling above my head. My first instinct was to signal the pilot. I waited until he made his next low sweep and frantically waved with my scarf. Imagine my delight when I saw that I had attracted his attention and he was descending.

After explaining my predicament, he offered to take me to a nearby town.

The aviator threw in the clutch. Mingling with my emotions, a queer tingling sensation crept over me. We were rising! How strange the earth looked! The towering mountains looked like small white specks. Every moment we were rising higher and higher. Then suddenly the earth was hidden from sight. The air grew cold and it became hard to breathe. I was frightened until I realized that we were only passing through a low cloud.

We emerged soon to find that the sun had set and evening was throwing her dark mantle over the earth. It was but a few minutes until we reached the aviation field. My exciting ride was over.

It was certainly hard for me to come down to earth, thank the aviator and go home.

Knowledge of Industries Important Part of School

By I. E. MANSELL

Changing conditions in our industrial and social life have made necessary many changes along educational lines. Not many years ago and in the early period of our national development, much manufacturing was done in the home, and a child had a chance to observe the work of his parent or his older brothers and sisters and receive more or less home training in the means and methods of the work. But, under the present system of production on a large scale, everything is so specialized that the young employed worker does not even have the opportunity of seeing what is taking place in other parts of the plant in which he works. So our schools are trying more and more to give as broad a knowledge of industries and occupation as is possible with the facilities and equipment available, and thus supply what was formerly obtained by the children from the home and the small shop.

Another important aim and value of manual arts in the grades is found in the training of the pupils' eyes and hands so that they can more quickly learn any sort of manual work later on and overcome awkwardness in using their hands.

The mere acquiring of some degree of skill in manual work and of the so-called fundamentals of industrial training is a course not sufficient to equip the children of today so that they can choose intelligently their life work but for those who will need it we are succeeding in developing a taste for industrial work in a pre-vocational way and helping the young workers to choose with some degree of intelligence the occupation for which they are naturally fitted.

We do not attempt in the brief courses in our public schools to make them proficient in any craft or occupation, but leaders in education have long realized that personal dislikes, mental and physical deficiencies and lack of dexterity can early be discovered through these prevocational courses and the child is guided in selecting the kind of occupation for which he is best fitted.

The training is resulting in the development of a keen interest on the part of many pupils in perhaps one or two lines together with a necessarily limited degree of skill in manipulating the tools of various trades and occupations as well as the discernment of what will be required for success in them.

Guided by these principles we are endeavoring to present various lines of work to the pupils in such a manner that they may understand and make use of them in selecting and making an intelligent beginning in their occupation, and properly use the training for informational or manipulative suggestions in eliminating awkwardness and inefficiency in using their hands.

Special English Students Display Interest in Work

By JENNIE YOUNG FREEMAN
Of Union High School Faculty

Most students who fail in English dislike the subject. Repeatedly giving a certain kind of medicine which is distasteful, however beneficial it may be, does not serve to create a liking for it; on the other hand giving it in a different form need in no wise lessen its virtue. After failing an English course once, a student is not likely to develop any great enthusiasm for it the second time over, after whatever interest newness may have once given it has been worn off.

There are certain minimum essentials of correctness in speaking and writing which are pretty generally agreed upon and a familarity with some examples of good literature is desirable for its value in forming ideals, insight into life, pleasure, and for the improvement it may give in methods of thought and expression. There is, however, no set method, nor particular text book which must be used in order to gain these principles of rhetoric; nor do certain masterpieces have a corner on all the value to be derived from the study of literature.

The purpose of the "Special English" classes is to give the required medicine in a new form, paying particular attention to the individual needs of the student; choosing books for reading, according to the interests of those we are trying to help. The work is so divided that if a pupil is weak in composition and grammatical usage but good in literature, he may take the work which particularly meets his needs. Perhaps the chief value of "Special English" lies in its elasticity and adaptability. To be most beneficial the classes should be small to admit of the greatest possible individual attention and personal touch.

We find that most of the "Special English" pupils are "passing," and are expressing a gratifying interest and profit in the work.

Habit of Cheating Time Hindrance to Safety First

By WARREN RIGDON
B-Eighth, Intermediate School

"Safety First" is a great motto. If each one's slogan was "Safety First" there would be few accidents in this world.

The habit of cheating time is a hindrance to "Safety First." People try to get to their destination too hurriedly and meet with accidents. Take for example this story.

A boy was trying to catch a car. An auto was coming down the street. Hurrying, he ran in front of the machine and was seriously injured. What was waiting a moment for another car compared with being crippled for the rest of his life?

Carelessness is another fault in the way of "Safety First." Take for instance the story of another who picked up a gun, not bothering to see whether it was loaded, playfully pointed it at his friend and thus mortally wounded him.

A driver should know the traffic laws. He should give the proper signal when turning a corner. His lights should be directed in the rightaway so as to not dazzle those in front of him. All other rules of the road should be observed also.

This all goes to show that carelessness and trying to beat time are very dangerous not only to yourself, bu to others, and that knowledge and obedience of the law is a great asset to "Safety First."

Attempt to Teach These Kittens Table Manners Fails

By LOUISE HENDERSON
B-Third Grade, Colorado School

My mother cat has some baby kittens that go to the table and cry for something to eat. And if we do not give it to them, they jump up on the table and eat what they want. One day we had some pie for supper, and the big cat and the little kittens ate the pie all up and got it all over the table. Now my sister tries to teach them table manners, but she cannot do it. The cats are still as naughty as ever.

Intermediate Pupil Writes Poem on Subject of 'Think'

By HELEN STERNBERG
B-Eighth, Intermediate School

THINK

Think of the man in the trenches,
The man who would fight for you;
Who would fight for the women and children,
And die for the Red, White and Blue.

Think of the man on the ocean,
Who would drown in the briny deep;
Who would give his life for his country
And to the Red, White and Blue give peace.

Think, if it were your boy,
Who went down to a watery grave,
Or gave his life in the trenches
Freedom's cause to save.

Think if no one paid him homage,
Or no one thought him brave,
Would not you feel very sorry
If he went unwept to his grave?

Then won't you pay the man homage,
Whose folks have passed away,
And join in the prayers and the singing
To be held on Armistice Day?

An orchestra plays every afternoon from 4 until 6 in a large barber shop in New York City.

Take Yeast Vitamon Tablets To Put On "Stay-There" Flesh

More "Pep" and "Punch"—Small Cost.

Thin or run-down folks will find this simple test well worth trying: Take Mastin's VITAMON—two tablets with every meal. Then weigh and measure yourself each week and continue taking Mastin's VITAMON regularly until you are satisfied with your gain in weight and energy. Mastin's VITAMON Tablets contain highly concentrated yeast-vitamines as well as the two other still more important vitamines (Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble C), all of which Science says you must have to be strong, well and fully developed. By increasing the nourishing power of what you eat Mastin's VITAMON Tablets supply just what your body needs to feed the shrunken tissues, strengthen internal organs, clear the skin and renew shattered nerve force without upsetting the stomach or causing gas. A two weeks' test will surprise you!

IMPORTANT! While the amazing health-building value of Mastin's VITAMON Tablets has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, nervous troubles, anemia, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, they should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having their weight increased to normal. Be sure to remember the name—Mastin's VITA-MON. You can get Mastin's VITAMON Tablets at all good druggists.

Three Day Trial for Motorcar Buyers

The offer of the Glendale Hudson Sales Agency, 230 North Brand boulevard, to permit any prospective buyer to give any renewed car on sale there a three-day trial is meeting good response according to W. W. Reilly, who yesterday announced the sale of several cars from the stock already.

"It is a fair proposition and something new," deilared Mr. Reilly. "We know what the cars are before they go out and know that they will do just what we say. We will continue this sale of renewed cars for one week.

"This is the best part of the year to buy a used car because the dealers are cleaning out their stock, making room for the new year's business."

Clay Craft Display Is Made at C. of C.

The Clay Craft Potteries, Inc., which is located just over the line in Los Angeles along the San Fernando road, but claims itself a Glendale industry, has placed a display of its beautifully finished product in the Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

The Clay Craft people live here, bank here and have their industry in Los Angeles only because they cannot get natural gas at the same rate. Frank N. Payne and Sutherland DeWitt are two who are interested in the concern, the former being a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Henry R. Harrower of the Harrower Laboratories, Inc., has presented the chamber with a photograph of his establishment in appropriate frame. It is one of the most creditable looking institutions of its kind in the United States, according to visitors who viewed it this morning.

NAZIMOVA in CAMILLE

The Camille of modern France; chic with the charm of the Parisienne who gowns at the Rue de la Paix, dancing with the abandon of a gleesome pagan from the Casino in Montmartre, sparkling with the golden gayety of champagne, and loving with the intensity of one who gives life for love. The role in which the leading actresses of the world have scored their greatest triumphs on the stage now interpreted in a modernized screen version by the supreme Russian artist, NAZIMOVA.

Local Basketball Team Is Beaten by Hollywood

The 130-pound basketball team of the Glendale high school opened its 1921 season yesterday afternoon by losing a practice game to the Hollywood high lightweights by the score of 22 to 10. The contest, which was played in the local gymnasium, was witnessed by a large number of students from both schools.

The game took the appearance of being a walkaway during the opening minutes of play, but after the Red and Black casaba tossers hit their stride the tilt resolved itself into a real fight. At the end of the first half the score stood 17 to 4, Coach Hayhurst sending in several first team men who stopped the onslaught and actually outplayed the Foothillers during the last half, scoring six points to their opponent's five.

The stars on the Glendale quintet were Cline, guard, and Colburn and Bryant, forwards, their play being brilliant from start to finish. Toy and Suffren featured for the winners.

The lineup:

Hollywood—Forwards, Hall and Suffren; center, Wyatt; guards, Toy and Kiesel; substitute, Wright.

Glendale—Forwards, Morgan and Bryant; center, Ageson; guards, Wilson and Roach; substitutes, Cline, Coburn, Fruhling, Lindsay and McIver.

THERE'S NO DANGER FROM INDIANS IN TODAY'S SCHOOLS

W. L. Anderson Tells of Time When Getting Scalped Was One of Outdoor Sports

Kids now-a days don't get scalped by Indians on their way to school.

At least W. L. Anderson says he hasn't seen any Glendale children bothered by Redskins lately.

As the parade of school children in 1919, 1920 and 1921 model luxurious automobiles purred past Andy's Airplane, 1416 South San Fernando road, Mr. Anderson in his chef's apron stood outside upon the sidewalk and discoursed upon the hardships of attending school in pioneer life. He admitted that he had never had the opportunity of attending school in an auotmobile—or even in an ox cart.

In 1844 Mr. Anderson's parents moved to eastern Texas and when he was about 2 years old, in 1860, moved west, not far from the northwestern frontier. Indians in the vicinity were continually on the warpath and it was largely a question of keeping out of their reach or getting scalped. Whenever the moon was full the family looked for an Indian raid. Frequently a small band would ride near the vicinity, yelling like fiends.

Guess at Direction

Late one afternoon, while Mr. Anderson's father, J. L. Anderson, and his uncle, B. G. Lawrence, were out hunting game for supper three or four shots were heard, and the family got an idea that they had been killed and that it would be a pretty good time to leave for a better residential section of Texas. So Mr. Anderson's mother and aunt took him and started out without even bothering to change clothes or lock the door—on a hike of thirty or forty miles to the nearest settlement.

There were no roads and it was a question of guessing at the direction. Fortunately, while they were resting in a thicket before proceeding very far, they were discovered by Mr. Anderson's father and uncle, who happened to be passing that way en route back to the cabin.

After quarters had been established further east, Mr. Anderson was able to attend school for several years—that is, he was able to go to what was called a school. There were no regular schools in the region and several of the squatters contributed to hire a man to teach awhile. Usually he had headquarters in a log cabin about three to six miles away. When young Anderson wasn't needed around home to do a man's work, he was allowed to tramp three miles to school—and three miles home again.

Can't Buy Text Books

Later on the Anderson family moved into a district where there were free schools. At that time many of the settlers were so poor that they couldn't even afford to buy text books. Mr. Anderson was obliged to leave school before he was certain of his multiplication table.

When he was 17 Mr. Anderson got married and located near Fort Worth. He says that he could just about write his name and that was about all. He desired to learn the carpenter trade, but found that he had to learn arithmetic—so he got busy and studied at nights for six or eight months.

"Everything is given to youngsters on a platter," declared Mr. Anderson. "A child has no excuse now for going without an education."

Class in Journalism Is Given Much Actual Work

By PAUL E. WEBB
Glendale Union High School

The purpose of journalism, as a phase of the English course in the high school, is to increase the student's effectiveness in the use of written composition, to further his ability to think for himself, and to give him a sound basis for judging the relative values of current news stories. The student is admitted into the class only after having satisfactorily completed two or three years of the regular English course. However, the journalism work differs considerably from that to which he has been accustomed. A natural motive for good work is here introduced in the form of the school paper, The Explosion, which is written and edited entirely by the journalism class. The student now feels he is writing for a definite purpose—not for some benefit to be realized in the future. The teacher is not now the person that must be satisfied; the writer's own fellow-students are his most severe critics. Ability receives its reward, not only in good grades, but what is much more gratifying to the student—advancement to positions of trust on the staff of the paper.

When it is realized that the class must write from 6000 to 8000 words a week, revise the copy, write the necessary headlines, correct the proof, and make up the paper, it will be evident that the students are assuming a great responsibility, in which everyone must do his part, or the paper for that week is a failure. Punctuation, accuracy, good English, and a good sense of relative values are the prime essentials necessary to carry out these details satisfactorily. An attractive, well-balanced, and newsy paper is the objective for each week's work.

In the editorial column the student tries his hand in the expression of his opinion on matters of general interest to the student body. He learns to know the power of the written idea and to use it. In connection with this the best newspapers of the country are studied with the purpose of judging their relative merits. In this day when the newspapers and magazines are doing most of the thinking for the majority of the American people—creating a monopoly on ideas, as it were—it is well that we trained our young people how to think for themselves. If journalism served no purpose other than that, its place in the curriculum would be well justified, for in such thinking and in such ability in judging relative values, lies the foundation of good citizenship.

Little Laura Cutler Is Somewhat Disappointed

When Laura Cutler, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cutler of 337 West Burchett street, was told that "Papa and Mamma were saving their money in order to buy a new baby before Christmas time," she was a happy little girl and had many visions of a beautiful child resembling one of eight months or so, that lived across the street whom she adored. When she was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium last week to see the little son and heir, she gazed at it rather sadly. Finally she drew father to one side and said: "Papa, I do wish that you had gone with Mamma, when she went to pick out the baby."

Plenty of Pluck Needed by Great Men, Says Writer

By RAY OELSCHLAGER,
A-Seventh, Intermediate School

Pluck is one of the very best qualities a person can have. If one has pluck he can undertake almost anything which requires grit.

All of our great men had to have pluck to become great. Take Lincoln for example, he was very poor when he decided he would like to do something of use for the United States. Lincoln's motto must have been "I can." Think how the World War would have ended if it had not been for the pluck of our soldiers.

I don't think there is any such thing as luck, but if you wish a word something like luck, prefix luck with the letter "p" and you will have a word worth while.

Undoubtedly you have read of sinking ships. The captain must have pluck, for sometimes he stays aboard his ship and goes down with it. Other times he will be the last one off. Each sailor must be running over with pluck, for often one of them will dive off a ship in a storm to rescue a drowning person.

Every business man must have pluck to stand up for his rights.

Children need pluck, for often they have many battles to fight and many temptations to meet and overcome and many bad habits to conquer. All these require, "Pluck."

Mass Meeting Favors Grey Site for School

Sentiment in favor of the Grey property at Doran and Kenilworth as a high school site was strongly developed at the mass meeting held in the high school auditorium Monday night, with O. M. Newby presiding. During the meeting Mrs. M. L. Tight mentioned that there was a movement in Eagle Rock to annex to Glendale, but, as stated by Chairman Newby today, there was no "crystalization" at the meeting for annexation.

"In fact," said Chairman Newby, "that subject was not even seriously discussed. We were there to discuss a high school site. Sentiment in favor of the Grey property was practically unanimous."
